"There are two ways we can look at this summer for both high school and college students: the Summer of Disappointment or the Summer of Invention. We vote for invention. We're creating an experience that will help students think, act, exploit data, iterate, and move like startups — and we'll be inspiring them to create game-changing ideas tailor-made for the moment we're living in right now. I guarantee they'll see bold possibilities the rest of us haven't yet seen." - Pete Blackshaw, Cintrifuse CEO

We're facing extreme challenges in our society today: the Covid-19 virus; social injustice and unrest; global warming; and more. Extreme challenges inspire game-changing innovation and turbocharge the creativity of entrepreneurs. Which is why we want to inspire and empower YOU – the next generation of entrepreneurial talent.

In this first-ever summer program, you'll have the chance to meet and learn from a diverse mix of Cincinnati's top tech and entrepreneurial leaders – and to collaborate with other diverse inspired students from across the region. You'll be challenged to create bold solutions to some of our society's toughest challenges. And you'll pitch your ideas in an exciting virtual pitch competition before a panel of startup, corporate and Venture Capital judges. This won't be an exercise! We expect ideas to emerge that business and community leaders will be excited to embrace. You'll receive exclusive access to P&G's Annual Signal 2020 Innovation conference including presentations by the CEOs of Twitch and Snap.

You'll end the summer with a powerful and enduring class project: creating a visual "memory wall" that preserves the moment we're living right now to ensure it is remembered for the courage, resilience and resourcefulness we see all around us. It will be displayed prominently at Union Hall in OTR.

You'll also receive a one-year Cintrifuse membership that includes a range of services such as meeting with entrepreneurs, access to the Startup Series virtual programming that teaches startups how to develop and grow their business, and the opportunity to visit Union Hall, the hub where startups work, learn and grow.
